ARGENTINA

Argentine Identity

Argentina has several distinctive features that visitors have made famous worldwide. Its friendly, funny, easy-going people; its typical food, such as asado (BBQ), mate (a typical infusion), regional meals and dulce de leche (caramel) bites; traditional dances, such as the tango (a partner dance characterized by 2 x 4 rhythms, originated in Buenos Aires in the XIX century and currently known world-wide) or folklore, with different choreographies in each region; the passion for soccer overtly expressed by players and club members (Boca Juniors and River Plate are the two most popular teams, which sell out their tickets when they play together, creating quite a stir in the matches); typical games, such as Truco, a card game where wit and lying prevail; horseback traditional games in the countryside, which reflect the strong influence of Spanish culture and the persistence of old traditions and, last but not least, the unique features of each region that have strengthened and remained along the years.

Language

The official language of the Argentine Republic is Spanish (locally referred to as castellano).

Location

The Argentine Republic, with almost 3.8 million Km2, is located in the Southern Hemisphere of the American continent. Its 3,800 Km length is extended from 22º until 55º latitude south. The country is bordered by Uruguay, Paraguay, Brazil, Bolivia and Chile and the Atlantic Ocean to the East and it is divided into 6 regions for tourist purposes and into 24 provinces for political ones.

Geography and Weather

Argentina is usually described with impressive contrasts, resulting from its rich and diverse geography. It extends from the Andes mountain range on the west - which stretches along the country from north to south on the Chilean border with its highest peak, Aconcagua, 6,959 meter high - until the Pampean plains and the Atlantic coastline made up of hills, forests, jungles and fertile valleys. The biodiversity of ecosystems fosters the development of rich fauna and flora. Many of the natural sites in the country are protected as natural reserves or national parks; some of the top landmarks have even been awarded World Heritage status by the UNESCO.
Argentina diversity is also reflected in its wide range of climate conditions: warm and humid in the Pampean plains, cold and humid in western Patagonia, subtropical in the Mesopotamia and warm in the northeast. The highest elevations in all latitudes are the ones with the coldest conditions, arid weather, mountain snow and a wide temperature range.

Shopping
Stores are open from 9am to 8pm on weekdays in the main cities and from 9am to 1pm on Saturdays- though the stores on the main avenues are also open in the afternoon. The shopping centers (malls) have extended hours from 10am until 10pm, even on weekends and official holidays. Some services are expected to be tipped (mainly gastronomic ones) with 10 % of the total amount (hardly ever included in the bill). Tipping the doorman, bellboys and ushers at the theater is also the norm.

Payment Options
US dollars and Euros are usually accepted in stores, but if you need to change them for local currency you have to go to a bank or an official money-exchange company. The credit cards most commonly used are American Express, VISA, Diners and Master Card.

Banks and Office Working Hours
Banks are open from 10am to 3pm (some banks extend their closing time until 4pm for certain transactions). Money withdrawals and other transactions can be carried out in ATMs, which are open 24/7.

BUENOS AIRES TOURIST ATTRACTIONS

In the first place, you cannot miss the new downtown area (Plaza de Mayo – the main square, and Florida pedestrian walk), where you’ll find the most outstanding buildings and monuments of the city. Then, it is worth to keep on walking until you reach Monserrat and San Telmo neighborhoods to enjoy the historical center of Buenos Aires. A must-see is the Colón Theater, in San Nicolás neighborhood, considered one of the best ten opera houses in the world. Nearby, you can visit the Obelisco, the most iconic monument for the city and its residents, take the Metrobus (exclusive-lane bus network) or walk along Corrientes Av. to look around the book stores or see a play in one of the numerous theaters.

Another must-see is Recoleta neighborhood, famous for its aristocratic buildings and palaces as well as its magnificent parks. Once there, we recommend you to keep on walking until you reach Palermo Woods (bosques de Palermo) to visit the Rose Garden (Rosedal) and the Japanese Garden. In the southern area of the city you’ll find the renowned neighborhood of La Boca, well-known for its Caminito pathway, the Usina del Arte (an arts center), Quinquela Martín Museum and Boca Juniors soccer stadium. Walking along Puerto Madero is also worthwhile, as it is one of the most modern and dynamic areas in town as well as one of the most important dining districts- together with San Telmo, Las Cañitas, Palermo Hollywood and Palermo Soho. In these areas you’ll find plenty of bars, restaurants and discos to go out at night and milongas (tango-dancing bars), where you can see tango dancers or take your first steps in a tango class.
